Nos. 3 and 10 were moving nearly at right angles with sach other in the northwestern part of the yard near the signal-tower at Forty-sixth-st. Engine No. 3 was aking three cars to the storage sheds, and Engine No. 10 was switching two cars to the opposite side of the ard. The first intimation of a collision was a loud ash and men who ran toward the two engines found the fireman of No. 3, John Whitehead, lying beside the track with both legs severed just below the knees. Not far off John McGovern, a brakeman, lay in the mow He had seen the danger in time and had jumped from one of the cars attached to Engine No. 10. injuries were slight and he walked to his home at No. 503 West Forty-ninth-st. Whitehead was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where he died about 3 p. m. He ves a wife and child at No. 353 Ninth ave.

Stationmaster Franklin said to a Tribune reporter at, as far as was known, nobody was to blame for the accident. Considerable switching is done at that hour of the morning, and the blinding storm had evidently confused one of the men and caused one of the enrings to be about twenty feet off of her right of way. Which engine this was, or who was in charge of the two mrines at the time of the accident, he refused to say.

"When the crash occurred," said he, "Whitehead, it is supposed, was standing between the cab and the kinder, probably Shovelling coal into the furnace. The shock must have thrown him between the tank and the rear end of the cab and severed his legs. The tamage to the engine was slight."

THE STORM ALONG THE COAST.

6NOW DRIVEN BY A VIOLENT NORTHEAST WIND

ston, March 19 (Special).-The fourth snowstorn for the present winter began this morning and con-tinued until about 8 o'clock to night. The wind blew fresh from the northeast, reaching a maximum of thirty-one miles, drifting the snow and delaying the trains on all the roads somewhat. The mercury fell rapidly during the day, touching 21 degrees at p. m., when the official record indicated a total scipitation of seven inches. A fair number of oastwise steamers and schooners reached Boston during the day. The outward bound steamers for Baltimore and Philadelphia and New-York prudently delayed their departure. Trenton, N. J., March 10 (Special), -Princeton and Rutgers colleges were engaged in a little tug of war tosixty free scholarships at the State Agricultural Collecat New-Brunswick. Senator Adrian introduced the bill some weeks ago, and representatives of flutgers. including President Gates, have been here urging its passage. The scholarships were to be given, one to were to be awarded after competitive examination for out of the State treasury whether they were filled or not. Senator Adrian then introduced a substitute or not. Senator Adrian then introduced a substitute bill providing that only these scholar-hips that were filled should be paid for. The substitute passed the Senate, and would have passed the House too, had not Princeton College sent Thomas N. McCarter, of Newark, down here to oppose it. The Princeton men this morning moved to lay the hill over. Mr. Voorhees, a Rutgers man, explained the measure. He said that when the State established its Agricultural College. Princeton, the representative college of the State, was saided to take charge of the institution. Princeton declined to accept it, and the Agricultural College was then given to Rutgers. The measure finally went over until Monday night.

was a special order in the Senate this morning. It was read through carefully, section by section. Several amendments were added, and the bill was passed, Mr. Hendricks asked to have inserted a provision for personal registration in cities before each charter To this Mr. Linson offered no objection. At Mr. Saxton's suggestion an amendemnt was made At Mr. saxton's suggestion all should state the ages requiring that the registry list should state the ages as well as the residences of voters. Other changes prisonment, without the option of a fine, and for fraudulent registration or impersonation of voters imprisonment for not more than five years.

On the call of the roll on the final passage of the bill Mr. Erwin surprised many by declaring he did not approve of it.

"In some respects," he said, "I supporeally a wise measure. But I think, as applied to the whole State, it is a mistake. There may be good reasons why it should apply to the country districts. districts there is no general desire that it should become a law. It is needed in the cities, but will interfere with the rights of rural voters. There are no generally fraudulent prac-tices at the polls in the country districts. There the elections are fair. We have tried a registration bill there once and failed, and if this is passed there will be as strong an effort made to repeal it as there is to repeal last year's dog law,"

Mr. Fassett said his experience with the dog law was different. "I got piles of petitions protesting against its repeal," he said. "As to this being a Democratic measure, I have never been accused of

of a dozen Troy laundry girls animated the seene is the senate Chamber this afternoon, where the Senat Prisons Committee sat to hear arguments on Mr. Colins's bills for reducing convict labor. Robert Open heim, of Troy, the laundry girls' champion, advanced a novel proposition for the discomfiture of senti mentalists who persist in teaching convicts trades. "Why do you always teach convicts to compete only with workingmen ?" he asked the committee. saw in a New-York religious paper only the other day a strong plea for their training as mechanics. If they must be taught something, why not teach them to compete with professional men! Why not make law yers of them, or doctors, or even ministers? It would be at fair to do that as to bring them in competition with honest labor. We find wages reduced in the laundries in Troy over 30 per cent in three or four years through prison competition. The number of prisoners employed may be small, but they overstock the market, fix the price, and force us down."

"Can you suggest any unobjectionable method of employing convicts !" the chairman asked. Yes, I would employ them to make clothes for use in State institutions, and set them at work on the highways. Supposing that a sister of one of you you like to have her work side by side with a conask to be employed. It's all very well to talk about assanity among convicts, but I would rather see a aundred convicts insane than a dozen honest people shriber.

Anna Peiper, one of the girls, also gave the committee a piece of her mind. "I'm sorry I have to appear here as a speaker," she modestly began; "but why should convicts be allowed to compete with honest women? That's what I can't understand. What do they intend to do with us-drive us to become either paupers or criminals? Take care of what you have already and don't make any more—that's what I say. The convicts lainney shirts for 24 cents a dozen, while we get from 72 cents to $1.20 for broning, not to speak of the washing or starching. Is that fair competition? If they are so afraid of insanity, I wonder what they're afraid will happen to the poor working people. If the convicts must do the work, let it be done at the price charged by the psople outside. Controller W. J. Roche, of Troy, and others also spoke. The Assembly Prisons Committee will hold a bearing on Tuesday next at 3 p. m., and the Senete Committee another on Thursday week at 8 in the evening. A joint hearing may also be arranged for.

When the resolution was announced, Mr. Cantor at once moved its adoption. Mr. Erwin moved to lay it on the table, and Mr. Sloan to refer it to the Finance Committee. Mr. Sloan was supported by Mr. Passett in the argument that such a ence was necessary to enable the senate to act "What makes you so enger to rush it through:

for deliberation. I well remember the consequences of adopting similar resolutions prematurely in previous years, and I especially remember what happened after we adjourned last year. "You can't embarrass the Governor in that way," cried Mr. Cantor.
"I said I wanted to relieve him."
"Well, he doesn't require that. He is willing to take the responsibility of his action, and he doesn't care whether the supply bill reaches him before the session closes or after. The people have always stood by him thus far. Mr. Sloan knows he can get the supply bill ready by March 31, and if we adjourn on April 30, that will give the Governor ample time. Why, continued Mr. Cantor, growing ironical, "an early adjournment would be a compliment to the Republican majority for their dispatch of business. I ask that the resolution pass in the interest of the people. Leave a great deal of this private legislation in which they are not interested on your desks, and go home on April 30.

"The gentleman knows as well as I do," said Mr. Fassett, "that that is all humoombe." If there is any private legislation here that ought not to pass, I undertake to say we won't phase it. If Mr. Cantor and his friends won't filiuster or resort to dilatory facilies, we undomistedly can adjourn on April 30, and perhaps a little earlier. But we can work no faster than is consistent with the public interest. If any body should accede to Mr. Canter's request, nobody would be more sory than he is."

"I am willing to have the experience tried," said Mr.

"The result isn't worth the experiment," reforted Mr. Fassett. Mr. Fassett.
Mr. Jacobs declared that if the Assembly had had the remotest idea that the Senate would adopt the resolution, it would not have been introduced.
Mr. Sloan's motion to refer the resolution to the Committee on Finance, was adopted, Mr. Ahearn and Mr. Jacobs voting with the Republicans.

He has no claim of any kind against the company, and he never had one. The note of my father which he makes the basis of his suit is frandulent for several reasons. In the first place, my father never signed a note, and in the next place, he never signed his name in full. It seems unnecessary to suggest that the date of the note is April I.- Another officer of the company suggested that Mr. Herring, the manager of the Eathmore division, had promised on the last previous occasion to have Dr. Wagner confined in some place where he could do no further harm.

The reopening of the Cahill case, the Scottish-American Athletic Club champion boxer, caused the liveliest discussion of the meeting. Cahill was suspended by burg division-Mary Bellman, Hazelwood; Lloyd Show, the Amateur Union for supposed professionalism some time ago. The case was brought up again last night and for a time it looked as if Cahill's friends had packed the meeting. Patrick Cahill himself was one Earnings and expenses for February last (estimated) of the delegates and was called upon for a state sense of the word. Several of Cahill's friends called for a vote on the question. One excited delegate cried out: "Cabill should not be made to suffer for an

for a vote on the question. One exceeds decays cried out: "Cabill should not be made to suffer for an infringement on amateur rules committed by the New-York Athletic Club."

A. G. Mills defended the New-York Athletic Club and strongly opposed the idea of reinstating Cabill. Mr. Mills said that he had labored hard with B. G. Williams to have him come before the union and testify as to Cabillis record, but that Williams had refused. It was suggested that the scottish-American Club bring a suit against the union, to compel it to reinstate Cabill. It was said that in this way the witnesses desired could be subpsended. A vote was taken as to whether Cabill should be reinstated, and was lost by 15 by 4. It was finally decided that the union should appoint another committee.

The following clubs were represented by from one to three delegates: New-York Athletic, Athletic Club of the Schurkill Navy, National Athletic Club, New-York Turn Verein, North American Turner Bund, West End Athletic Association, Riverside Athletic Club, New-Jersey Athletic Club, Prospect Harriers, Fastime Athletic Club, Commind Athletic Club, American Athletic Club, Scottish-American Athletic Club, Sanciation, Riverside Athletic Association, Sanciation athletic Club, Scottish-American Athletic Club, American Athletic Club, Scottish-American Athletic Club, Sanciation, Sar Athletic Club, American Athletic Club, Scottish-American Athletic Club, Scottish-American Athletic Club, American Athletic Club, Scottish-American Athletic Club, American Athletic Club, Scottish-American Athletic Club,

AMBERST'S BASEBALL NINE

SUSPENDED FROM THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

The Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange after a long meeting yesterday sentenced J. A. Blair to a year's suspension for violation of the commission The culprit has been a member of the Exchange for about six menths, and before his alleged promotion he belonged to the Consolidated Exchange, which has been made a rival by the grace of the Governors of the older board. The specifications in Mr. Blair's case were not made public, but he admitted that in a technical sense he had violated the law. Whether the fact that he had formerly belonged to the rival ex-change had anything to do with the judement is one of the secrets which the Governing Committee chooses to conceal. Of course ho one of the members who voted in favor of the sentence had ever transgressed
